

Sectors

Browse the latest research and insights from J-PAL's ten sectors. Led by J-PAL affiliated professors, sector teams manage initiatives that fund research, create publications that summarize lessons from randomized evaluations, and host policy and training outreach events.

EVALUATION

Temporary Labor Migration as Mitigation:
Strategies for Managing Seasonal Famine in

Bangladesh

Can monetary incentives induce rural farmers to migrate to cities and pursue seasonal labor opportunities during times of famine?

EVALUATION

Improving Governance Through Biometric Authentication and Secure Payments in India

In India, a biometrically authenticated payment system reduced corruption and substantially improved the delivery of government social assistance programs despite partial implementation.

EVALUATION

Contraceptive Adoption, Fertility, and the Family in Zambia

Women who received private access to vouchers for contraceptives were more likely to take up and use contraception, compared to women whose husbands were involved in the voucher program. In contexts...

POLICY INSIGHT

Microcredit: impacts and limitations

BLOG

Tackling crime and violence in Latin America with cognitive behavioral therapy

Developing new strategies to reduce crime and violence is a top priority for Latin American policymakers. Much of the violence in the region affects young men as both victims and perpetrators....

Published on The Abdul Latif Jameel Poverty Action Lab
(<https://www.povertyactionlab.org>)

<https://www.povertyactionlab.org/sectors>