Support Us

Your contribution supports our work conducting rigorous randomized evaluations, training others to run their own evaluations, and impacting lives through policy outreach and the scale-up of programs found to be effective with partner governments and implementers.

Support J-PAL

Your unrestricted gift allows us to:

- Fund early-stage research for project development; travel to explore new areas of research; and to support graduate student research efforts;
- React quickly when opportunities for policy impact arise by sending speakers to high-level conferences or meetings on short notice and responding to policymakers’ requests and schedules;
- Offer scholarships for our training courses and support the development of new training offerings, including open online courses.
